Student Mock Election

Manual

Letter from Secretary Aguilar

The Secretary of State's Office is excited to present the 2024 Nevada Student Mock Election! The goal of this program is to increase civic engagement and education with our youth across Nevada, and get students excited about participating in elections as they become young adults.

Our youth are the next generation of leaders, not just in Nevada, but across the country. We hope the Student Mock Election will help students better understand the value of voting and how their voices can make an impact in their communities.

Thank you for participating in the Nevada Student Mock Election!

Francisco V. Aguilar
Nevada Secretary of State

A Message from the Advisory Committee on Participatory Democracy & the Youth Advisory Task Force

Advisory Committee on Participatory Democracy

"Tell me and I forget, teach me and I may remember, involve me and I learn." Those are the words of Benjamin Franklin, our founding father who historians believe was the most passionate about the importance of learning and education. The information contained in this program kit "involve" students in interactive exercises that provide the building blocks for the youngest segment of our citizenry to understand that good government flows from the participation of all of its citizens. The Advisory Committee on Participatory Democracy (ACPD)* wholeheartedly supports the student mock elections program and is appreciative of the efforts of Secretary of State Aguilar and his team to ensure the program's continued success during a very busy election year. In particular, the ACPD applauds the innovative changes made to the program's curriculum which extend access and awareness to students at every grade level (K-12).

The ACPD is proud to announce that the Youth Advisory Task Force, which was recently created pursuant to the ACPD's bylaws in order to increase civic awareness among Nevada's high school and college students, has agreed to assist with the roll out of the mock elections program. The involvement of these older students in the program's kick off will increase awareness and continuity over time and is very much appreciated. Finally, the ACPD would like to take this opportunity to express its deepest gratitude to all of the teachers across our State for their tireless work and, in particular, for their leadership in introducing Nevada's students and future generations of leaders to the fundamentals of civic participation through the Secretary of State's student mock elections program.

Youth Advisory Task Force

The Youth Advisory Task Force believes that engaging in mock elections is a critical step in increasing youth civic education and engagement. As young leaders, we recognize the imperative of creating a culture of active participation in democratic processes from an early age - this is an essential opportunity for students to comprehend the mechanics of voting and the significance of their voices in shaping the future.

Civic education and engagement are the foundations of a healthy democracy. Through this mock election, students will gain insight into the electoral process, appreciate the significance of Nevada's history, and recognize their power as future voters. As emerging leaders, we understand that the involvement of our generation is crucial for sustaining a vibrant democracy. Participation in such activities nurtures informed and active citizenship, laying the groundwork for a stronger and more dynamic society.

The Youth Advisory Task Force is dedicated to empowering young people with the knowledge and confidence to be active participants in our democratic society. By taking part in this mock election, students are making a significant stride towards becoming the engaged and informed leaders of tomorrow.

* The ACPD and YATF are non-political and non-partisan groups created by the Nevada State legislature to support the Nevada Secretary of State's efforts to promote citizen participation in governance and the democratic process.

Writing Prompts & Lesson Plans

Kindergarten

Writing Prompts

#1

Draw a picture of people voting in an election. Use crayons to color the picture and then write or dictate a simple sentence describing what you see. For example, "People pick their favorite."

#2

Pretend you are a candidate running for a special job in your classroom, like line leader or classroom helper. Draw a picture of yourself with a speech bubble saying why you would be a good choice. Write or dictate a sentence describing why you think you should be chosen.

#3

Create a drawing of people helping each other in the community. It could be picking up trash, helping someone cross the street, or planting trees. Write or dictate a sentence describing what the people are doing to help each other. For example, "We work together to make our neighborhood nice."

Lesson Plan 1

Lesson Title: Exploring Elections: A Kindergarten Introduction

Duration: 60 minutes

Objective:

- Students will understand the basic concept of elections and their importance in a democratic society.
- Students will be able to identify key terms related to elections.
- Students will be able to explain the role of voters in the election process.

Materials:

- Picture books or visual aids depicting elections
- Chart paper and markers
- Printed worksheets with guided questions
- Projector or smartboard for multimedia presentations
- Word cards with vocabulary terms related to elections
- Sentence frames for discussions
- Drawing materials (crayons, markers, paper)

Procedure:

Introduction (10 minutes)

1. Begin with a brief discussion about making decisions together as a group. Use examples from the classroom or playground to illustrate the concept.
2. Introduce the concept of elections as a way for people to make decisions together by voting for their leaders.
3. Emphasize the idea of everyone having a voice in the decision-making process.

Reading with Visual Support (15 minutes)

1. Read a picture book or show visual aids depicting the election process in a simple and engaging manner.
2. Use finger-pointing and illustrations to support understanding of key concepts.
3. Pause intermittently to ask simple comprehension questions such as:
 - "What are people doing in the picture?"
 - "Why do you think people are standing in line?"
 - "Who do you think they are voting for?"
4. Encourage students to share their thoughts and observations.

Vocabulary Introduction and Matching (10 minutes)

1. Introduce key vocabulary words related to elections such as "vote," "ballot," "candidate," and "election" using word cards.
2. Provide simplified definitions for each term and model how to use them in sentences using sentence frames.
3. Engage students in a matching activity where they match each word card with its corresponding definition, with support as needed.
4. Review the answers as a class and clarify any misunderstandings.

Guided Group Activity (15 minutes)

1. Divide students into small groups and provide each group with a worksheet containing guided questions related to the election process.
2. Encourage students to work together to answer the questions, providing support and assistance as needed.
3. Circulate around the room to monitor progress and provide guidance.
4. Use sentence frames to support students in discussing their answers within their groups.

Interactive Presentation with Drawing Activity (10 minutes)

1. Use a projector or smartboard to show multimedia presentations or short videos about elections.
2. Reinforce key concepts such as the roles of candidates, voters, and the voting process.
3. Encourage students to draw a picture of themselves voting or a picture representing an election scene.
4. Allow students to share their drawings with the class and discuss what they have depicted.

Conclusion (5 minutes)

1. Lead a brief discussion on what students have learned about elections today.
2. Ask students to reflect on why they think voting is important and how it helps make decisions in their community.
3. Conclude the lesson by summarizing the key points discussed and emphasizing the significance of elections in a democratic society.

Assessment:

- Informal assessment through observation of student participation and engagement during discussions and activities.
- Review completed worksheets for understanding of election concepts and processes.
- Evaluate student drawings and verbal responses for comprehension of key concepts.

Lesson Plan 2 with Scaffolds

Lesson Title: Understanding Elections: Scaffolded for Kindergarten

Duration: 60 minutes

Objective:

- Students will understand the basic concept of elections and their importance in a democratic society with scaffolded support.
- Students will be able to identify key terms related to elections with scaffolded activities.
- Students will be able to explain the role of voters in the election process with scaffolded prompts.

Materials:

- Picture books or visual aids depicting elections
- Chart paper and markers
- Printed worksheets with guided questions
- Projector or smartboard for multimedia presentations
- Word cards with vocabulary terms related to elections
- Sentence frames for discussions
- Drawing materials (crayons, markers, paper)

Procedure:

Introduction (10 minutes)

1. Begin with a brief discussion about making decisions together as a group. Use examples from the classroom or playground to illustrate the concept.
2. Introduce the concept of elections as a way for people to make decisions together by voting for their leaders.
3. Emphasize the idea of everyone having a voice in the decision-making process.

Reading with Visual Support (15 minutes)

1. Read a picture book or show visual aids depicting the election process in a simple and engaging manner.
2. Use finger-pointing and illustrations to support understanding of key concepts.
3. Pause intermittently to ask scaffolded comprehension questions such as:
 - "What are people doing in the picture?"
 - "Why do you think people are standing in line?"
 - "Who do you think they are voting for?"
4. Provide sentence frames to help students articulate their responses.

Vocabulary Introduction and Matching (10 minutes)

1. Introduce key vocabulary words related to elections such as "vote," "ballot," "candidate," and "election" using word cards.
2. Provide simplified definitions for each term and model how to use them in sentences using sentence frames.
3. Engage students in a matching activity where they match each word card with its corresponding definition, with support as needed.
4. Review the answers as a class and clarify any misunderstandings.

Guided Group Activity (15 minutes)

1. Divide students into small groups and provide each group with a worksheet containing guided questions related to the election process.
2. Encourage students to work together to answer the questions, providing support and assistance as needed.
3. Circulate around the room to monitor progress and provide guidance.
4. Use sentence frames to support students in discussing their answers within their groups.

Interactive Presentation with Drawing Activity (10 minutes)

1. Use a projector or smartboard to show multimedia presentations or short videos about elections.
2. Reinforce key concepts such as the roles of candidates, voters, and the voting process.
3. Encourage students to draw a picture of themselves voting or a picture representing an election scene.
4. Allow students to share their drawings with the class and discuss what they have depicted.

Conclusion (5 minutes)

1. Lead a brief discussion on what students have learned about elections today.
2. Ask students to reflect on why they think voting is important and how it helps make decisions in their community.
3. Conclude the lesson by summarizing the key points discussed and emphasizing the significance of elections in a democratic society.

Assessment:

- Informal assessment through observation of student participation and engagement during discussions and activities.
- Review completed worksheets for understanding of election concepts and processes.
- Evaluate student drawings and verbal responses for comprehension of key concepts.
