

The people of the State of Nevada do enact as follows:

Article 1. Sec. 23. Unalienable right to life of every prenatal person is protected.

The intentional taking of a prenatal person's life shall never be allowed in this State.

For the purpose of this section only, the terms "prenatal person" include every human being at all stages of biological development before birth.

DESCRIPTION OF EFFECT

All persons are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights and among these is the right to life. Defining "prenatal person" has the effect of making illegal intentional acts which kill such persons, including elective, surgical and/or chemical abortion and fetal homicide.

The United States Supreme Court stated in Roe vs. Wade, "If this suggestion of personhood is established, the appellant's case, of course, collapses, for the fetus' right to life would be guaranteed specifically by the [14th] amendment." Therefore, establishing personhood for every prenatal, human being in Nevada constitutionally protects that person's unalienable right to life irrespective of race, sex, age, size, location, viability, or dependency, perceived handicap/disability, physical or mental level of function or biological development.

In this same opinion the Supreme Court said that no laws existed in 1973 which defined the prenatal human being as a person. This is no longer true today. At least thirty-eight states, including Nevada, have enacted fetal homicide laws, with elective abortion being excepted. The majority of those states' fetal homicide laws protect prenatal persons up to the earliest stages of pregnancy. Endowing personhood prohibits fetal homicide during all stages of every prenatal person's biological development.
